That your meanest hinds are men!
Men of labor, men of feeling,
Men of thought, and men of fame,
Claiming equal rights to sunshine
In a man', ennobling name.

There are foam embroidered oceans;
There are little wood-clad rills;
There are feeble, inch-high saplings;
There are ceders on the hills.
God who counts by souls, not stations,
Loves and prospers you and me;
For to bim all vain distinctions
Are as pebbles in the sea.

Toiling hands alone are builders
Of a nation's weelth and fame,
Tiled lyziness is pensioned,
Fed and fattened on the same;
By the sweat of others' foreheads,
Living only to rejoice,
While the poor man's outraged feeling
Yainly lifts its feebled voice.

Truth and justice are eternal,
Jorn with loveliness and light;
Secret wrongs shall never prosper
While there is a sunny right.
God, whose world-wide voice is singing
Boundless love to you and me,
Links oppression with its titles
But as pebbles in the sea.

THE PLEDMONT FACTORY.

The Manchester Cotton Mill of the State to be Doubled in Size and Capacity—An Im-portant Meeting of the Stockholders.

Greenville Chronicle.

By Dennies and See and apleasure to be present on Thursday last at a special meeting of the stockholders for the counting room of the Company, at Piedmont. The early morning train brought us to the picturesque village at half paste oligh; in company with a number of the habobs of that wealthy corporation.—Leading from its depot to the mill is a broad street, which, after a few hundred yards from the railroad, is lined with nearly built framed tensment houses, in which well the operatives of the mills and other employees of the company. The party preferred walking instead of taking seats in the vehicles which meet them at the depot, the road being in fine condition and the walk short and pleasant, and all were anxious to leavely view the beauties and improvement of the town that have sprung up within the past several years as if by spontaneous growth. Pledmont is the centre gwn in the crown of South Carolina in must year a sparkling iswel that adorns the head of Southern manufacturiage interests. On a hillon the left, in entering the village, stands a splendid church, recently crected by the company, the ventre of the stockholders being among the wealth is a fill on the left, in entering the village, stands a splendid church, recently crected by the company, the business headquares of the Southern manufacturing interests. On a high hill, overlooking the factory, counting room on the company, the business headquares of the stockholders and visitors are soon on a four of impection through and about the Factory, observing the life of the day. The factory is running with full fore, and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the quick step and nimble metion of zever and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the quick step and nimble metion of zever and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the quick step and nimble metion of zever and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the quick step and nimble metion of zever and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the quick step and nimble metion of zever and the rattle and hum of smachinery, the

Mr. L. D. Mowry was called to the chair, Secretary Perry being at his post. Messrs. Donaldron and McCaaghrin, committee, ascertained that 2,981 shares of stock were represented, after which Mr. Hammett stated that he had called Mr. Handmett stated that he had called the meeting at the request of a majority of the Board of Directors to consider the propriety and advisability of increasing the capacity of the mill. He also read an estimate of the cost of a projected extension from Mr. Lockwood, Mill Engineer. A vote was then taken, on motion of Mr. Gregg, to obtain a sense of the meeting on the question of increase, which resulted almost unanimously in favor thereof.

tion of Mr. Gregg, to obtain a sense of the meeting on the question of increase, which resulted almost unanimously in favor thereof.

By a resolution offered by Mr. Hamlin Beattie, unanimously adopted, the President and Board of Directors were authorized and instructed to increase the capital stock by subscription to $500,000, the limit of the company's charter, the privilege of increase to be first offered to the present stockholders in proportion to the number of shares now held by each, and again in the same way to those of their number desiring it, should any of the new stock be not taken up.

On motion of Mr. McCanghrin the stockholders are allowed until April 1 to signify their intention of accepting their precent share of the new stock. It was fur. It resolved that the limit of the extension of the mill be left to the discretion of the President and Board of Directors, who were also authorized to borrow to the extent of $100,000, if necessary, to complete the extension. On this point Col. Hammett informs us that the capacity of the mill will be doubled, or, in ther words, a factory of the same size and capacity as the present one will be added. It was ascertained in the meeting that a large proportion of the increased capital will be taken, and the Directors at a meeting held in the afternoon authorized and instructed the President to take the necessary steps for the erection of the necessary steps for the erection of the necessary were all in fine spirits, and there seemed to be a general good feeling over the results of the past year's work.

Col. Hammet will at once begin on the grand task before him, and hopes to complete the extension by the end of 1880. A contract for one and a half millions of brick has already been awarded to Mr. Charles T. Hammond, who will begin work as soon as the season arrives. It is refreshing to see men take hold of a business proposition of such magnitude with the vim und unanimity that prevailed at this meet...g. It must be remembered.

To do this consumes about forty minutes, allowing time to notice the difficent kinds of machinery in use, and the difficent kinds of machinery in the conversion from raw that into bolts and packed bales of sheeting and ahirting for market. During this forty minutes, or in less time, perhaps, we are told that a hale of cotton is made into cloth racky for the consumeral market. About an average of 20 bales of cotton, weighing 420 pounds to the bale, are made into goods per day. The number of comes, 240, and the number of comes, 2500 pounds of yara. Three hundred operatives are employed in the various departments. The factory is run under the superintendency of Mr. E. T. McKinney; the chief of the carding department is Mr. J. D. Tica. I have in my time been in many of the most remarkable places in the world, and now I have turned up, as I think, in that which is the most remarkable of all. Sour Lake is a circular pool of an acre or two in extent, situated in a depression on the most elevated tract of land in a wide scope of country. It rises above the contiguous territory as an island in the sea rises above the waters. Now conceive a depression in the centre of our island, filled with a bubbling, boiling pond, as round as a well, surrounded by a dense forest, and we have Sour Lake and its topography.

Natural Wonders in Texas.

pond, as round as a well, surrounded by a dense forest, and we have Sour Lake and its topography.

On the edges of the lake or pool are situated most of the wells, five or six feet in depth, with pank curbing. Some of these are in a vigorous state of ebullition, while others have very little ebullition. This ebullition is nothing but currents of gas escaping from the earth. This is made apparent by a common experiment here. Take a common fruit can open at one end and a small hole bored in the other. Immerse biffoit in water where the ebullition is going on, and touch a lighted match to the hole. Instantly a brilliant flame pops up, which will burn unless blown out by the wind as long as you choose to hold the can in its position. There are jets of gas issuing cut of the ground all about the pool, so that with your fruit cans and milk cans you may have flames without end. You may even set fire to the pools, or apparently do so, by applying a match to the surface where it is bubbling, or boiling, but these flames speedily go out.

Some of these valls throw up a yellowish and blackish all, which collects on the surface and may askimmed like cream. This smells very strongly of tar or naphtha, but at a little distance is pleasant to the nostrils. The water on which this substance smells. He who drinks it gets his whole body considerably infected by the smell. This substance is gathered here, and the people readily buy it at a dollar a quart. They say it cures sores, cuts and burns. It is inflammable and burns with a great smoke. It is, I suppose, liquid carle ...

Others of the wells are as sour as crab apples, and these invariably send up a strong odor of sulphur. They bubble

Others of the wells are as sour as crab apples, and these invariably send up a strong odor of sulphur. They bubble and boil considerably, and have a whitish appearance, as if pulverized chalk had been stirred up in them. This is white sulphur. They have a slight taste of the fluid carbon. These are said to act powerfully upon the liver, and several have told me no case of dyspepsia could long withstand them. Then there is another well that is strongly impregnated with iron. Its waters are distinctly marked from the others in appearance, being exceedingly soft and limipd.

Then there is another well or pool, which if what is said of it be true, is, if not the most remarkable, yet certainly destined to be the most renowned of all. They call it "Youth and Beauty." It deposits a peculiar sort of sediment on its bottom, which, as they say, has the remarkable property of beautifying the skin and removing the freekles. I am told that this deposit is so much in demand that it is not always easy to keep a supply of it during the watering season.

The site here is really a glorious one for a watering place; a great prairie to the south filled with fragrance and wild flowers, and a great forest in every other direction, penetrates the labyrinthine walks; oaks, magnolias, myrtles, hollies, beeches, and maples, and gums, and vines without end. How easy would it be to light all this extensive ground into a blaze of glory at night, by utilizing the earth.—Letter to Galveston News.

BLOOD UPON THE SOUTH .- The Yankee BLOOD UPON THE SOUTH.—The Yankee burns slow, but he has been heating up all these years of wrong, cruelty and perfidy, and, unless we are greatly mistaken, people of the North are well night the boiling point of impatience concerning the South; if she won't live under law, then let her die under law; we are all sick of her loathsome shape; her hands dripping with the bood of the feeble and ignorant, her everyday life a tale of murmer and fraud; the olive branch has been stretched in vain year after year; her been stretched in vain year after year; her poverty and sickness have been the signal for lavish generosity on our part; she grasps the olive branch only long enough to divert our attention and then tries to heat our brain extension. enough to divert our attention and then tries to best our brain out with a bludgeon; it accepts everything; it renders back no sign of reconciliation or obedience to law, and the North in sheer despair says, give us once more a Republican Congress to make our law operative, and a man like Grant to do his plain duty, instead of quibbling how he can dodge it, and we will yet have either some respite from the reign of terror at the South or a desert; the South had better be barren as Labrador than as helliah as equatorial Africa.—Rutland Herald.

PREPARED FOR HEAVEN .- Some time PREPARED FOR HEAVEN.—Some time go one of Arkansas' most widely known statesmen, who is now dead, was passing along a street in Little Rock, when an old colored man, who had once belonged to him, approached, took off his hat and passed a hand over his white wool, as he said:

"Marater, gin de ole man fifty cents." "Dan, you are a robber."
"How? asked the astonished darkey,

"How? asked the astonished darkey, opening his eyes, around which roughshod age had walked.
"Didn't you see me put my hand in my pocket?"
"Yes, sah."
"Weil, you old rascal, you have robbed me of the pleasure of giving you money without being asked."
The old man received a dollar. Bowing almost to the ground, while tears came out and coursed through the age prints around his eyes, he replied:
"Marster, wid sich a heart as you has and wid Abraham and Isaac an' de Lord on your side, I don't see whet can keep you out of heben."—New York World.

A MERMAID IN DELAWARE,-On Tuesday of this week Capt. Raymond, keeper of Life Saving Station No. 3, found on of Life Saving Station No. 3, found on beach what he supposed to be a mermaid which had been washed up from the sea. Capt. Raymond describes it as being about the size of a 6-year-old boy, and to the middle or waist of the body resembling a boy in every particular. He says that its face, head, neck, arms and bust, paywell as its hair, were similar in appearance to those of a human being. There were no fingers on the hands, but a coarse, moppy hair like the frizzled end of a whalebone, supplied their place. The lower portions of the body, from the middle or waist downward, resembles that of a shark, the tail being covered with a hairy sobstance similar to that of the hands. 'Apt. Fowler says that the "tarnal critter" came there for no good, and it betokens a terrible shipwreck and fearful loss of life, which is soon to happen on that part of the coast.

To-day, in his debt statement, he comes within $784,000 of it, and this amount he expects to wipe out in his next monthly statement. The reduction of over $11,000,000 shown to day is the large; monthly reduction since 1872. The revenues of the government have of late been constantly increasing, especially from customs. The internal revenue receipts for the last six months of the last year were $3,000,000 in excess of the receipts for the corresponding period of the previous year, and the customs receipts in the same time were $16,000,000 more than for the corresponding period of the previous year.

To accomplish the seemingly incredible act of putting an egg into a bottle requires the following preparation: Put an egg in vinegar, and in course of time its shell will become quite soft, so that it may be extended lengthwise without breaking; then insert it into the neck of a small bottle, and on pouring cold water upon it, it will assume its former figure and hardness. This is really a curiosity, and baffles those who are not in the secret to find out how it is accomplished.
